CLARETIAN COMMUNICATIONS FOUNDATION, INC.

(CCFI) runs the CLARETIAN PUBLICATIONS-PHILIPPINES. CCFI is a pastoral endeavor of the Claretian Missionaries that brings the Word of God to people from all walks of life. It aims to promote integral evangelization and renewed spirituality that is geared towards empowerment and total liberation in response to the needs and challenges of the Church today.

Initiated in 1981, CCFI was originally called Claretian Publications, Inc. (CP). CP was renamed Claretian Communications, Inc. (CCI) in 1992. Then CCI became a Foundation in 2002. A member of the Claret Publishing Group and the Asian Catholic Communicators, Inc. (ACCI), CCFI is an established name in religious publishing, known for selling books at a price affordable to people as a response to the call of evangelization using what is most urgent, timely and effective.

A Short History

In 1981 the Philippine Province of the Claretian Missionaries initiated a program of dialogue between Latin America and the Philippines as a special service to the local Church to provoke openness and establish a network of communication between countries and continents, especially in the Third World. Fr. Alberto Rossa, CMF an Argentine Claretian in the Philippines was assigned to coordinate the “dialogue project” on a “part-time basis”. It was in this context that the idea of following up the initial dialogue through publications came.

There were also other factors that would eventually encourage the establishment of a new publishing house in the Philippines; there was the Chavacano (a Filipinized form of Spanish which is the language in the mission area of the Congregation in the Southern Philippines) New Testament translation project of the Congregation, then the work of Br. Tony Daufl, CMF, who by 1980 had published some catechetical materials with the help of the USA Western Province, and finally, the contacts with the Claretians of the USA Eastern Province and their assistance to the Philippine Claretians through co-publications of books on religious life and initial financial assistance.

CP was formally registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission of the Republic of the Philippines on July 25, 1983, with Fr. Alberto Rossa, CMF as its first director. CP began with only a part-time director, a secretary and an assistant. On June 3, 1992 CP was renamed Claretian Communications, Inc. (CCI) and on September 10, 2002 it was officially known as Claretian Communications Foundation, Inc. (CCFI). Today, CCFI has a reputable name in religious publishing with quality printing and contents.

THE RISK OF HOPE

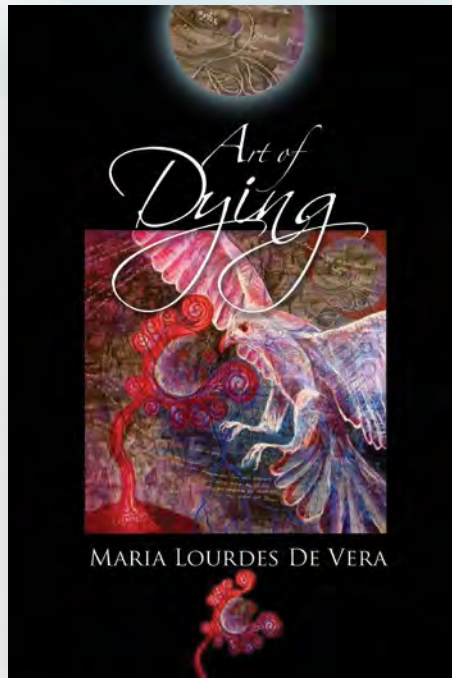

Telling the Story of God in Our Day

BY CARDINAL LUIS ANTONIO TAGLE

PAPER COVER | 172 PP. | ©2018
 SIZE: 7.25" X 5" X 0.188" | ISBN 978-621-426-075-1
 RIGHTS: ASIA | US$ 5.00
 CATEGORY: PASTORAL-MISSIOLOGICAL

In these pages, the Archbishop of Manila, one of the most recognized Catholic voices at the international level, guides us along two tracks: a wise reading of the Word in Sacred Scripture, and a theological interpretation of daily life as a powerful communication of God.

An encounter with young people; a decision taken as a seminary formator; conversations with his faithful in Manila; a casual interview during a flight. Taking off from these (and other) experiences, Tagle leads us to realize that hope still lives in our time and that the resurrection is capable of piercing through the evil that surrounds us. It is up to us to see the beauty of the Risen Lord in the events of everyday.

ART OF DYING

BY MARIA LOURDES DE VERA

PAPER COVER | 144PP. | ©2018

SIZE: 9" X 6" X 0.313" | ISBN: 978-621-426-072-0

RIGHTS: WORLD | US$ 6.00

"Reading the book gives you a haunting feeling of how death can be experienced. Buried in words are various attempts to make death acceptable and at the very least humanizing. It presents dying as a tussle of will and skill, a tug of war between hope and surrender and a struggle between acceptance and denial.

It presents a vivid description of death from someone who you will believe died and ordered to recall what transpired. It is a deep declaration of immersion that made dying both literally and figuratively lucid and crisp. It is a beautifully crafted depiction of an internally devastating condition, filled with uncertainty and painting a picture of a soul slowly leaving its body. It is a call of someone struggling to go yet clinging to the bargain of staying intact.

The book will put you at the edge of your seat unsettled and bewildered with the thought of what will happen next and how this encounter will end."

Edwin V. Rodriguez, MD, MHPed (Pediatrician -Pediatric Hematologist) Former Associate Professor, Department of Pharmacology UST Faculty of Medicine and Surgery

The Spirit is to be found everywhere. The Spirit is present and acts where we least expect. The seduction of the Spirit (Harvey Cox) never stops. Never before has the Spirit's presence been so multilingual, so pluriform, so endlessly diverse. Within the Spirit we encounter the Mystery that is the most elusive of all but that is the most significant for humanity and the cosmos. Whoever connects with the Spirit of a Thousand Names will one day begin to feel drawn to Christ Crucified, will be invaded by the memory of Jesus of Nazareth, will have the perspective of the fulfilled Word open to him/her, will sigh with joy, will tremble within, and will make a profession of faith, "I believe in you, Abba".

CATEGORY: PASTORAL-MISSIOLOGICAL

Religious education has to effectively communicate the essentials of the Christian faith by directly relating faith to the actual living out of the faith. Integration, as an approach in religious education, highlights faith's experiential nature and its direct relevance to the Christian way of living. The integrated approach to faith aims at the maturing of faith involving a personal decision for Jesus Christ in the Church and in the world today. Imagination, the human capacity to perceive the divine presence in the created realm, is an essential element in the integration of faith and life. The study of Scripture, the soul of religious education, must present the Christian message as Good News that is liberating and transforming human life. Scriptural interpretation using imagination, pneumatic exegesis, performance hermeneutics within the liturgical life of the Church stresses the positive qualities of Scripture as the inspired living Word of God, truly sacramental, book of the Church and a work of art.

Paano ba mag-isip ang Pilipino tungkol sa buhay, pamumuhay at pakikipamuhay? Ang 'kultural' na tanong na ito ang siyang nagtulak sa mga teologong may-akda na siyasatin ang sariling karunungan at henio ng kulturang Pilipino gamit ang salamin ng Kristiyanong pananampalataya na nakatuon sa katutubong konsepto ng "Ganda." Sa madaling salita ang aklat na ito ay nabuo dahil sa pagnanais ng mga may-akda na maisulong ang isang natatanging pagteteolohiya na nakaugat sa katutubong kultura at gamit ang wikang Filipino.

"Ang isa sa mga hayag na ritwal ng mga Mahal na Araw ay ang prusisyon. Dito ay nabubuhay ang mga lansangan kapag inililigid ang mga imahen at mga sagisag ng mga huling araw ng ating Panginoong Hesukristo. Sa pamamagitan ng prusisyon, naipapahayag ng mga Pilipinong Katoliko ang kanilang pananampalataya kay Hesukristo, kaya nga mahalagang ang prusisyon ay makita bilang isang paraan ng pagkaunawa at pagdiriwang ng Misteryo Paskuwal. Sa diwang ito, isang malaking tulong ang aklat na ito, lalo na sa paghubog sa mga prusisyon at sa pakikiisa natin dito upang maging tunay na isang kilos ng pananampalataya at pagsamba, ayon sa Liturhiya ng Simbahan."

The essence of living out a Eucharistic Spirituality is what inspires Earnest to write this book. He challenges us to translate our attendance at Sunday obligations into genuine witnessing of God's love. This he suggests is possible if we first allow God to redeem us and make us whole. Then and only then can we be true followers of Christ who offer ourselves as bread to be broken and shared to feed and nourish the hunger of the world today.

THE FILIPINO CHURCH AT THE CROSSROADS

SIZE: 6" X 9" | ISBN: 978-621-8009-82-0

CATEGORY: THEOLOGICAL

This book outlines the theological principles that ground a contemporary view of the Church in the Philippines and specifies the challenges it has to face if it is to be Christ's credible witness in the world today.

Faithful to tradition in the spirit of Vatican II and yet critical of the Church's tendency to turn in on itself, this work calls on the Philippine Church to shift its priorities for mission by recovering the original simplicity of the gospels and not be stymied by an obsessive preoccupation with rules and rubrics, and like Jesus, go to the peripheries to bring the promise of God's liberating presence.

What does the Earth desire from us?

A more benign, respectful and grateful human presence. The Earth, our common home, our only home in the universe, calls us to intimacy and communion with her. She desires "to be admired in her loveliness, to be tasted in her delicious fruits, to be listened to in her teaching, to be endured in the severity of her discipline, to be cared for..." (Thomas Berry)

This is our eco-vocation. It is the "dream of the Earth" and our "great work." Rediscovering this call is the key to the flourishing of the community of diverse life-forms. It is our conscious response to the call of the Earth.

DANCING WITH THE SACRED

A Missionary Spirituality

PAPER COVER | 296 PP. | ©2016
 SIZE: 6" X 9" | ISBN: 978-621-8009-69-1
 RIGHTS: WORLD | US$ 7.00
 CATEGORY: RELIGIOUS

Drawing from stories and personal experiences (of his parents dancing and his first faltering steps, of the local shaman dancing to the people's rituals, of sacred intimacy and friendship, of kind creatures deciding to dance with humans despite their violence, of dancing in the dark and feeling the cosmos as lover, of a sampaguita vendor and her challenging gaze to honor the dignity of the poor), Fr. Bacani invites us to see our relationship with the Sacred as learning to dance gracefully in good times and in bad, in sickness and in health, in the middle of the fighting and at the end of it. He challenges the readers to consider the missionaries' own life and engagements – their inner struggles with power and sexuality, their delicate relationship with local cultures and peoples, their changing views of cosmos and creation, their sometimes ambivalent relationship with the poor and the socially excluded as potent areas where the Divine invites us to dance in graceful liberation and freedom. This book proves most helpful to missionaries, spiritual guides, theologians and personal searchers as it engages with the most recent issues of theology, ministry and spirituality.

Norlan Julia's beautiful reflection upon priesthood, drawing on the theological wisdom of Europe and Asia, marks a 'late flowering' of one important tradition – the pastoral anthropology of the German Jesuit Karl Rahner – and the seedlings of a second – an Asian theology which is dialogical, prophetic, and responsive to the 'Spirit-borne Word.' His confident and lucid mastery of two contrasting world styles, without denouncing the one or idealizing the other, is a 'love letter' to the Church in Asia, and a sign of hope for those called to serve her.

This attractive book explores the treasures of the Catholic faith from new and creative perspectives. The presentation follows the "spiritual journey" of Christians on their road to Emmaus as the context for answering frequently asked questions about the Catholic faith. Luke's beautiful "journey narrative," so cherished by Christians, becomes a perfect paradigm for discerning how Jesus as the face of God's mercy is revealed to us today—right in the midst of our questions, disillusionments, anxieties, hopes and dreams.

The work of the feminist theologian, Sr. Mary John Mananzan, is a breath of fresh air in the church history literature in the Philippines. It is history written in broad strokes giving the reader a panoramic view spanning five to six centuries. On the other hand, it does not brush aside the complex issues elaborated through minute historical details and quotations. It can thus serve both as a good orientation to newcomers in Philippine historical studies and an insightful conversation-starter among specialists.

With deep concern, I offer these seeds – the passion of service to persons, to our Congregation or Diocese, to the Church, and to the world in the perspective of God. Vocation is above all a grace, a gift of the Lord Jesus through the Holy Spirit that draws a Christian, starting from Baptism to a special consecration to Him. Therefore, the mission to take care of vocations is above all the task of the mysterious collaboration with this call from God that demands discernment, care, and fulfillment. This is the risk and the beauty of this specific commitment. We need the abundant gifts of the Holy Spirit, mostly intelligence, wisdom and counsel. May the Lord's blessing make these insignificant seeds grow, and may many seminarians, religious, men and women, find in them their nests of light and peace.

Ang Vaticano II at ang Katesismong Olandes ang naging inspirasyon para sa akdang ito.

Ang paggamit ng wikang sariling atin ay tugon sa isang pangangailangan. Marami sa mga babasahin tungkol sa pananampalataya ay nakasulat sa wikang banyaga na karaniwang hadlang upang lubos na maunawaan ang konteksto ng akda. Ang pangangailangan ay nananatili.

Ang tenor at diwang namamayani sa aklat, para namang pinagtiyap, ay waring tugma sa pananaw ni Papa Francisco, hinggil sa misyong pastoral ng Iglesia, na kaniyang inilalahad sa kanyang Evangelii Gaudium (2013).

Itinatampok ng Papa ang kahalagahan ng karanasan ng personal na pakikipagtagpo kay Cristo, na nagbubunga ng kagalakan at panloob na init na magpatotoo at maging misyon sa daigdig. Inaasahang mababanaagan ang ganitong mga katangian sa aklat.

DOCAT is a popular adaptation of the social doctrine of the Catholic Church, as it has been developed in important documents since Pope Leo XIII. Young people especially ought to take an interest in reading the major documents of the Church and in guiding their actions by the maxims of truth, justice, and charity that are contained in them.

"DOCAT answers the question: 'What should we do [as Catholics]?' It is like a user's manual that helps us change ourselves with the Gospel first, and then our closest surroundings, and finally the whole world," says Pope Francis in the foreword of DOCAT. "For with the power of the Gospel, we can truly change the world."

With the present and even-worsening and varying "world-views" on man, a book in defense of man's noble and high beginnings and destiny is another welcome development.

To my understanding, being "Champions for Creation" in Dr. Maximiano's view is a participation of the Great Being that set up the whole created world. Thus, it is a destiny of man to sustain the "inclusive development..." of our created world or planet.

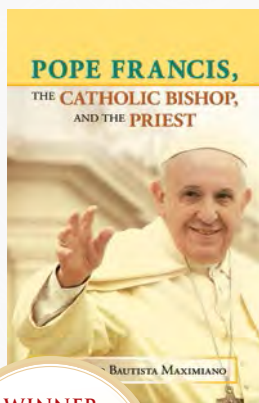

The book successfully underscored and put into the limelight again man's divinely granted role of making sure that human life, the environment and nature, as part of the created world, are treated, utilized, sustained, explored, and developed after the mind and plans of their Origin and Source.

The book extols the dignity of the ordained Catholic priest based on the many rich and relevant scriptural passages, Church Tradition, writings of the Church Fathers and many more. It is informative and formative at the same time. Priests and seminarians will profit from it since they will find several nuggets of gold they can profitably meditate on for many months. Even the laity can find the book helpful to better understand their "mysterious" pastors.

The success of BEC's in renewing families, parishes and dioceses in many parts of the Philippines and Asia has attracted the attention of some sister Churches in the West. They have sent lay people and priests to experience BEC living in our rural villages where our BEC's are thriving. They have been impressed and inspired by the prayer life, fellowship and solidarity, keen sense of sharing and serving in the BEC's of poor farmers. They have brought back their learnings to their home parishes for adaptation.

May the reading of these essays strengthen your hope in the Church and inspire you to closer and more prayerful discipleship of the Lord Jesus.

The book offers an overview of the essential psychological foundations that children need to possess in order to grow up healthy and well. It guides the parent therefore to provide their children with the necessary "roots" from which they will be strong and resilient to face life. This will give them confidence as well to find "wings" from which they can take flight and pursue the path that they are destined for.

An essay is a short literary composition written in the reflective mood. These books are collections of essays, which can be called "bi-polar" essays, in the sense that each essay examines a given reality under its "good" side and "bad" side from the Christian point of view. No doubt in the past similar bi-polar essays have been written on occasion by various authors, but this book is, I believe, the first book which is made entirely of such essays. Since it will be followed by several other similar books (as of now two additional books are in preparation), we could now speak of a new, independent and full-blown literary genre. Hopefully, other authors, more gifted than I, will contribute to this new genre and make it ever more nourishing for the soul.

This book is centered on the notion of covenant and its essential component, which is that of law. First it focuses on the old Mosaic covenant with its Law (the Ten Commandments) written on stone tablets. Then it shows that such a covenant could only be broken because its Law was exterior to the human heart. Then come Jeremiah, Ezekiel, Hosea and Second Isaiah announcing a NEW covenant. This one's law will be written on the human heart and, therefore, will be unbreakable. It will consist in nothing less than the Holy Spirit himself—so much so that law and Spirit will mean the same thing (like in the expression: the city of Manila, where "city" and "Manila" are the same reality.) That is why, as the book concludes, even non-Christians of good will can be saved if they only follow the Spirit's gentle promptings in their hearts.

THE PASCHAL MYSTERY AND DIVINE COMPASSION

CATEGORY: RELIGIOUS

This book is an invitation to prayerful reflection during Holy Week on what Jesus, as reported in John's gospel, intended to communicate to his followers then and now, when he spoke of the hour of his being lifted up as the moment when the Son of Man—and the Father as well—is to be "glorified". Is the Cross itself some kind of "universal notice" then to be "lifted up"? A demonstration of sorts? Is Christ's utter humiliation at the same time a glorification? Is the Cross the Father's glorification too—a self-revelation really and a "universal notice" of infinite Love? Is that what it means then, that the Son on the Cross reveals—or maybe more aptly, placards—the very inner being of the Father because "anyone who sees me sees the Father"? What this book offers are a few thoughts and images that, put together one way or another, could evoke answers to questions from the farthest corners of your hearts, and even perhaps from the depths of what a priest-friend once called an "Abba experience" in the solitude and silence of a retreat.

Learning becomes fun and exciting through storytelling and painting. Children have an innate love of stories create a sense of wonder and magic.

Stories teach us about life, about ourselves and about others. Thus, storytelling becomes a distinct way for children to develop an understanding of respect and appreciation for other cultures. It can also promote a positive attitude for people from different lands, races and religions.

Likewise, Art is basic in teaching. Every subject area is important, but no program for young Children could succeed without emphasizing art. Children at their prime age are able to express their feeling and emotions in a safe way through making, looking at, and talking about their own artwork and the art of others. Children are helped through art to develop perceptual abilities while able to practice and gain fine muscle control and strengthen eye-hand motor coordination. These are few of the many things one can obtain through art.

This book is a must-read for one who seeks to envision a Church of the Poor and a Church of Empowerment as leaven of Philippine society. The author contends that the Church on the ground is far from the ideals laid down in its own social teachings. But hope lies in 'faith inspired lay groups' who are trekking the initial steps towards an empowering process of engagement with civil society to bring forth the desired social transformation. After clarifying and analyzing the existing Catholic lay groups/movements, the author offers dynamic indicators for change through modernizing ways in utilizing public institutions for participatory deliberation and decision-making. The book is rich in content and well-written, professional and rational in style, and deeply reflective. It does not only whet the eagerness to read some more but, more importantly, sharpens one's conscience to move on and take action.

"In recent Philippine history, no bill or law in Congress has elicited so much passion than the recently passed RH Law. While the local institutional Catholic Church has doggedly opposed the law from its very beginning, many Catholics do not actually share its views and/or its approach to the issue. The book, A Conversation about Life, a collection of essays written by Catholics who want a more open discussion on the RH Law, presents a thought-provoking and critical response to issues raised by the law's opponents. It provides a significant and timely contribution to an issue that is far from settled. While one may not agree with the contention of the book's authors, the book serves as an invitation to truly engage in meaningful dialogue."

This book "A Journey to the Kingdom in the Spirit: Becoming a Church for All the Peoples of Asia", is a comprehensive and scholarly study of the different Federation of Asian Bishops' Conference (FABC) articles and their relevance to the Church in Asia. The book articulates the ways in which the Church in Asia can have an "Asian face." It stresses the primary role of the Holy Spirit in "understanding and interpreting other religious traditions and how the Church is to relate with their followers." The Catholic Church alone cannot fully discern the manifestations of the Holy Spirit without being enriched by its engagement and dialogue with other Asian Faiths and traditions.

Our hearts are filled and glowing with delight. We are no longer afraid of the desert. It is now our friend. God's grace is buried under the darkness of the sands – so that the germination of the kingdom may come to pass in us. Life will be determined by the fruits of the desert adventure. It is the attempt of this book to stimulate the interest of readers to flesh-and-blood stories of real people vis-à-vis the Sunday gospels. The contextualization of their situation in the light of the Scripture readings is meant to help us better relate our own unique stories to a fresh dimension of realization of the Truth of God. May Christ be our calling not simply at, but on the very crossroads of our lives. He is where He is to be found: on the very crossroad of our being – in a heart beating in love with His Mother's love.

The very fact that already there exist six volumes full of FABC's official teachings itself is a testimony to the vigour and vitality of the Catholic Episcopate in Asia as a whole. We should not forget that in these six volumes one finds not only a sort of historical record of the doings and teachings of the Federation of Asian Bishops' Conferences during the last 44 years, but they also bear witness to the Asian Episcopal solidarity.

At a time when Pope Francis keeps on reminding us of the importance of the unique and indispensable role the local churches ought to play (as already mentioned by the Second Vatican Council) in the Evangelization of the peoples, these documents of the FABC are the concrete proof of the Asian bishops' efforts during the past five decades to realize that call in their own local churches. Perhaps, with the Holy Father's special encouragement these FABC documents can now be used not only to teach our Asian Catholics but they can also be put into practice with greater intensity in our local churches.

This book is compilation of the author's weekly columns for the Asian Journal of San Diego, California, USA. The title, Lower Your Nets, is taken from Luke 5:4-7. Even though Simon Peter felt frustrated after a nightlong toil with no catch at all, because this seasoned fisherman followed Jesus' advice, "Lower your nets for a catch", a miracle happened. When they (the disciples) had done so, they caught such a large number of fish that their nets began to break. Just as Peter did much as a fisherman gathers in fish in his net, so we too play a role of gathering human beings in to the kingdom that Jesus has come to preach. This book contains Sunday Scriptures, reflections and quotations that are seasoned with humor. It is recommended reading for clergy and laity.

The Word-Mission Project is a journey made with other people. It recognizes the multiplicity of initiatives that other groups have already initiated in the Church. The books offer some proposals on how to profit from this Word-mission project. It underlines the following elements that would give a unique perspective to our study of the Word:

- A. To integrate the daily reading of the Word in the life and rhythm of the individual and of the group who wish to make this journey.
- B. To go beyond the mere reading of the Word in its critical and textual level so that it will truly be a spiritual reading of God's Word. Thus, a passage has to be made from "what the Bible says" to "what does it tell me" and "what does it tell us."
- C. To read the Word in view of service, that is, the Word as a source of spirituality and energy in one's commitment to serve the other.

The author's message is encouraging: "Think of your communities, their needs and aspirations, the stage of their faith, their education, their religious and secular culture. Adapt yourself to them. Give them the Good News to the extent they can digest and live it. Bring them closer to God and help them to see and live how near God is to them in their everyday life." This book offers models that can make our Eucharistic celebrations much more pastoral, much closer to the lives of the people, as you keep in mind the nature of the different parts of the Mass.

There was energy and inspiration to bring back to their respective places, countries and ministry the insights generated by the conference. Those of us who were privileged to be at the conference realized that we could not but engage in the ongoing dialogue and reflection on the vital role of Asian women theologians in the academe and in the grassroots to find more creative ways of engaging in the praxis of peace that leads to liberation.

He also tackles contemporary issues we experience today like issues on gender, domestic violence, and the value of living a moral life. A number of the core chapters directly engage the paradox of salvation and eternal life. The last two chapters of the work argue eloquently that the innocence, humility and openness of children serve as the role model for adults who seek the spiritual path, salvation, and a religious meaning for human life.

When Pope Francis was still a cardinal in Buenos Aires, he was concerned to guide the work of the catechists in the archdiocese. Fruit of the gatherings and celebrations, these important messages wherein Jorge M. Bergoglio emphasizes that the mission of the catechists responds to a true vocation in the service of the Christian community are what we are left with. To be a catechist is to participate in this pastoral task of receiving, accompanying, announcing and celebrating the faith of those who are in search of it. Beyond the teachers of the doctrine, the Church needs witnesses who are selfless and who lively transmit the faith; authentic servants of the Word who have allowed themselves to be touched by the Word itself and its project in life. The joy, the tenderness, the closeness... these are the traits of those men and women who have been seduced by this Word of life that they are announcing.

Cardinal Luis Antonio Tagle has been called "the Asian Pope Francis," because of his humility, his connectedness to the lives of everyday Catholics, and his insistence on the church's duty to care for the poor and the marginalized. In Luis Antonio Tagle: Leading by Listening, veteran Catholic journalist Cindy Wooden offers a poignant look at this Archbishop of Manila who has impressed Catholics around the world.

At the world Synod of Bishops on Evangelization in 2012, he told his fellow bishops, "The church must discover the power of silence. Confronted with the sorrows, doubts and uncertainties of people, she cannot pretend to give easy solutions. In Jesus, silence becomes the way of attentive listening, compassion and prayer. It is the way to truth." While not afraid to speak the truth to power, Cardinal Tagle also is not afraid to listen to the poor, the confused and the searching.

CATEGORY: PASTORAL-MISSIOLOGICAL

Cardinal Luis Antonio Tagle offers one of the most inspiring and influential voices in the global Catholic Church today. In Telling the Story of Jesus, he encourages readers to be in communion with Jesus, who is the story of God. The cardinal tells us that this communion is found in the Eucharist as well as among the lost, the tired, and the abandoned people of this world.

In this collection of powerful addresses, Tagle focuses on three fundamental dimensions of Christian experience: authentic spiritual worship of Jesus in and beyond Eucharist, our communion in the word of God, and the mission each one of us has to tell the story of Jesus based on our experience of him. Cardinal Tagle combines biblical narration and personal experience with sound theological reflection so that the story of Jesus becomes a story of love that leads to hope for the poor, for the church, and for the life of the entire world.

An English proverb bids us: "Take time by the forelock." This book of J. Maurus shows us how.

He counsels us to take time to think, to work, to read, to create—time for intellectual pursuits; to take time to eat slowly, to relax peacefully, to converse cheerfully, to laugh heartily—time for recreational pursuits; to take time to love, to be friendly, to help and lead—time for social pursuits; to take time to wonder, to thank, to pray, to meditate, to grow old gracefully—time for spiritual pursuits that prepare us for eternity, time without end.

WHAT, THEN, IS LITURGY?

Father Anscar Chupungco fondly recalls his first class as a student at the Pontifical Liturgical Institute in 1965. Professor Salvatore Marsili famed theologian, liturgist, and cofounder of the institute entered the lecture hall, and after a prolonged and awkward silence finally asked, "And so, what is liturgy?" This seemingly simple question underlies Chupungco's untiring love for liturgy and his lifetime of searching for answers. His is a passion deeply rooted in tradition, which is evident in this volume. Relying on Scripture, patristic writers, and conciliar and postconciliar documents and with great skill, prudence, and the fundamental virtue of obedience he carefully examines current liturgical trends that are the subject of fierce debate. At a time when we focus so intently on the debate itself, Chupungco cautions us to remember: "At the end of the day what matters are not personal opinions but what truly contributes to making the prayer of the Church an encounter with the person of Christ." It is this most sacred encounter that is at the heart of What, Then, Is Liturgy? And it is this encounter that will lead us day by day to the ultimate heavenly liturgy, our eternal and perfect offering of praise to God.

THE BIBLE

is the most popular book. Many who have been asked what book they would want to have if ever they were stranded on an island answered, "the Bible". For Christians the Holy Scriptures reveal the Word of God, the history and story of our faith, and the path to salvation. There is a desire in every person to know God and the meaning of life. It is this prompting in their heart that opens it to the Word of God.

It is commendable that Claretian Communications Foundation, Inc., has once again published a new edition of the Christian Community Bible (CCB). The version is somewhat interactive and invites readers to read in a meditative and prayerful fashion, individually or in groups. This edition is a great help to Bible study sessions that would not only inform searching hearts but also transform them into hearts of justice, truth, and peace.

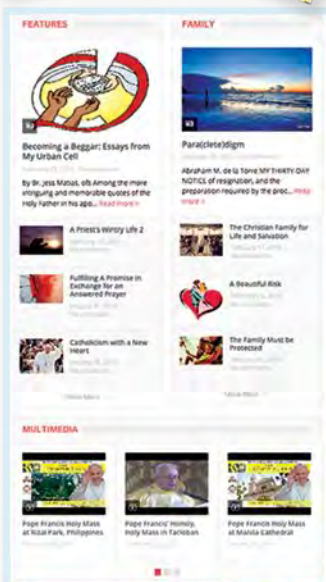

CHRISTIAN COMMUNITY BIBLE

Recognizing the needs of the Local Church of the Philippines and making more alive the Ministry of the Word, the Claretian Missionaries of the Philippines through the Claretian Communications Foundation, Inc. Formerly published in print however due to the demand for a wider audience and circulation, FilCatholic Magazine migrated to online publication. You may visit our site for various resources useful in various aspects of our Christian life.
